Concept and Design

Cocooned by green hills and well-manicured tea gardens of the Nuwara Eliya district, Scottish Planter welcomes the discerning at heart to a magical setting and homely atmosphere. This bungalow which is a heritage building over a 100-years-old and hewn out of stone, pays tribute to the Scottish planters in Sri Lanka of the 1880s; it features awe-inspiring colonial architecture & design elements that best reflect a legacy that continues to be embraced and appreciated! Step into one of the coziest Nuwara Eliya bungalows and feel right at home!

Location: Suriyakanda, Ragala, Nuwara Eliya, Sri Lanka.

Accommodation

The spacious bungalow interior has been assigned various Scottish clan colors of Tartan material. The bungalow consists of 3 public areas with old fire places dating back more than hundred years.
